Board approves payment from solar developer

BY MIKE LOOMIS
CORRESPONDENT

A green energy developer will pay Coal City over $60,000 to install solar panels on a parcel of land west of Dresden Road, according to an agreement approved by the village board of trustees.

By unanimous vote at their May 28 meeting, the board authorized Mayor Dave Spesia to enter a payment-in-lieu-of-taxes (PILOT) agreement with Coal City Solar for a planned solar installation.

The company is leasing approximately 30 acres on the property – located in the northernmost section of Coal City's land use planning area – from a local business entity, 565 Farm LLC.

The property is located along Dresden Road just south of the CPV Three Rivers Energy Center, a natural gas burning electric generation facility.

The property is not within Coal City's corporate boundaries but is within the village's land use planning area.

Grundy County already approved the land for solar energy production for 5MW of power. The petitioner is currently requesting two additional cells providing 5MW each.

"This is solar energy produced for the energy grid that is electricity supply purchased elsewhere by others demanding green energy," Village Administrator Matt Fritz explained in a memo to the trustees. Grundy County has already approved using the land for the solar array.

Coal City Solar's plans for the site include two solar photovoltaic generating facilities "which would be developed in conjunction with a similar...facility on the property," the agreement states.

In exchange for the village allowing the land to be utilized for the solar project, Coal City will receive an upfront payment of ten years' worth of taxation totaling $62,890.

"It's a nice deal for us," the mayor said after trustees approved the agreement. Groundbreaking on the site may not start until fall.

Village Attorney Mark Heinle said the village would likely receive payment when the solar facility is activated.

According to a conservation plan Coal City Solar submitted to the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, construction will include grading, installation of stormwater best management practices, construction of an access road and installation of the solar equipment.

In addition, the site will be revegetated with native plant species.

MAYOR DAVE SPESIA (right), congratulates David Moran upon his appointment as deputy chief of the Coal City Police Department.

Moran promoted to deputy chief

CORRESPONDENT

Coal City residents may recognize a familiar face as the local police department's new second-in-command.

David Moran, who has been with the department since 2005, was appointed as deputy chief by Mayor Dave Spesia at last week's meeting of the village board of trustees.

During his two decades in law enforcement, Moran has served as a patrol officer, field training officer and school resource officer. He has also received awards in pistol and rifle competitions as well as medals for actions taken in the line of duty.

Moran's appointment comes about two weeks after the mayor appointed Mike Imhof as the new police chief for the recently retired Chris Harseim.

At the May 28 meeting, trustees also:

- Approved the purchase of nine new security cameras for the Coal City Police Department at a cost of $16,087, and seven new cameras to be installed at Campbell Park for $18,266.

- Conducted the swearing in of Georgette Vota to a term on the village's Park Board, Quint Harmon to the Police Pension Board, and Jay Lusson to the Fire and Police Board of Commissioners.

- Approved purchase of 28 new residential water meters for an estimated $48,224 from Core & Main, a local distributor of water, wastewater, storm drainage, and fire protection products.

In last year's budget, the board approved switching out some of the older water meters for residents. After receiving the meters, the Coal City Public Works Department will start making appointments to replace the meters, Village Administrator Matt Fritz said.

Diamond seeks $4.1 million to upgrade Will Road

BY MIKE LOOMIS
CORRESPONDENT

Officials in Diamond are seeking a $4.1 million grant from the Illinois Department of Transportation to fix a one-mile section of Will Road.

The village board on Tuesday voted their approval for Mayor Terry Kernc to submit a grant application to the state. The funds would be used to fully reconstruct about two-thirds of the section of Will Road between Route 113 and Spring Road. The remaining part of the road would receive a new overlay and striping.

The upgrades are needed to make the road, which sees a lot of commercial truck traffic, safer, the mayor said.

Diamond has already secured $4.1 million in funds to repair Will Road in 2028 through the Chicago Metropolitan Agency for Planning (CMAP), which is a state-authorized and federally designated agency. However, the mayor said that recent budgeting changes occurring in the federal government mean that Diamond needs to consider alternatives.

"I'm not 100% confident those transportation funds will still be there in 2028," she said.

An advantage to applying for the state grant is that local municipalities are not required to provide matching funds. With the CMAP grant, Diamond would need to provide 20 percent of the project's costs.

"We've already saved about $1 million for that through the motor fuel tax," Kernc said. "If we do get the state grant, we would alert CMAP and then that $4.1 million would open up to other communities in Will County."

Kernc said that the $1 million the village has saved for the Will Road repairs could then go toward other road projects.

"There's huge competition" for the funds among communities throughout the state, the mayor said. If Diamond receives the state grant, a call for bids on the project could go out this fall and work could potentially start in spring 2026.

"(IDOT) wants these projects to start and finish within two years," the mayor said.

Coal City teen dies in single car accident

Grundy County Coroner John Callahan's Office confirmed a fatal crash on Jugtown Road in the Coal City area.

The incident was discovered at approximately 11 p.m. Sunday, June 1.

Preliminary investigations indicate a vehicle driven by 18-year-old Alexis Kay Higgins-Weatherhead of Coal City was northbound on Jugtown Road when she lost control of the vehicle.

The vehicle went off the east side of Jugtown approximately 200 yards north of Deerfield Drive. The vehicle traveled through the ditch striking small trees before entering the lake.

It is unclear as to exactly what time the incident occurred and how she lost control of the vehicle. The crash remains under investigation by Callahan's office and the Grundy County Sheriff's department.

Coal City Fire Department was on the scene and assisted by several agencies in the recovery of the vehicle.

Santa Claus coming July 19 for Touch-A-Truck event

Santa Claus is Coming to Grundy County is excited to announce its first-ever Touch-a-Truck event, set for Saturday, July 19, 2025, at Lions Park in Coal City. The event promises to deliver a fun-filled day for families across the region while raising funds for the Heroes & Helpers (https://gchhinc.org/about-us/) initiative.

This interactive experience will feature an impressive lineup of vehicles for children (and adults!) to explore, including:

- Fire and police vehicles from Coal City FD and Coal City PD
- A Grundy County EMA Command Van
- A military vehicle from the Joliet Marine Reserve Base
- A big tow truck courtesy of Bob's Advanced Auto & Tire
- A combine and tractors from Mark Wills
- A road construction truck from D Construction
- Water fight equipment brought by Mazon Fire Department

In addition to the truck showcase, attendees can enjoy fun and games on the ballfield, including:

- A dunk tank
- Easy Striker and Pit Stop Challenge games
- Pick-a-Duck activity (provided by Hometown Storage)

For just $10 per family, guests can access all activities, with all proceeds directly supporting the Heroes & Helpers program. The Touch-a-Truck area will remain free and open to the public, ensuring accessibility and enjoyment for all.

To bring even more excitement to the day, organizers are working with WCSJ Radio to host a live remote broadcast, including promotional radio ads in the week leading up to the event.

"This is truly a community event," said Dave DiVincenzo, Board President and our very own Santa Claus. "We've worked with local partners, first responders, and volunteers to create something special for Grundy County-and beyond."

The event was rescheduled to July 19 to avoid overlapping with the Coal City Back-to-School Bash, which will now focus on residents of Coal City, Diamond, and Carbon Hill.

In contrast, the Touch-a-Truck event will be open to everyone.

For updates and more details about the Touch-a-Truck event, follow Santa Claus is Coming to Grundy County on Facebook at https://www.facebook.com/santaclausiscoming-togrundycounty.

Join us on July 19th at Lions Park in Coal City for a day of family fun, community spirit, and support for our Heroes & Helpers initiative. We look forward to seeing you there!

PROPOSED DATA CENTER—A conception plan details a data center proposed on farmland near Kennedy (Reed) Road and Interstate 55 in Braidwood. The site would include up to eight buildings and a ComEd electrical substation.

Resident questions feasibility of data center

BY ROSE PANIERI
STAFF WRITER

Resident Marylu Jensen expressed concerns about a data center proposed for Braidwood.

The $40 million data center would be located near I-55 and Kennedy Road, consisting of eight buildings and two substations. The data center was proposed by Western Hospitality Partners, and will require three to five years to complete.

"My main concerns, which I need facts about, are the EMF, electromagnetic field... because it would broadcast out to further than what our city limits are," Jensen said. "The amount of water needed for the said facility—the amount of water needed and the method used to bring it to and take it from the said facility."

Jensen also had concerns about discharge of used water and whether it will be recirculated into the city's water supply, and possible problems related, as well as whether taxpayers will be responsible for installing new water lines.

"From where will electricity be generated?" she asked.

She questions light and nose exposure.

"I suggest the council would look at other data centers and the effects they're having on communities," she said.

Commissioner Dale Walsh later responded that representatives from the data center will attend a future meeting.

"We had a town hall scheduled with those folks to ask them all the questions she brought forth here," Walsh said. "She can attend the town hall and ask these people face to face."

Mayor Todd Lyons reiterated stating that the questions broached by Jensen were the same questions the council would like to ask the data center representatives.

"We are going to visit other data centers," Lyons said. "We are going to do our research, we are going to go to other communities and see with the effects are."

The mayor said while he has seen negative press on the internet, he has heard positive things from mayors in cities with data centers.

A data center is a physical source that stores computing machines and related hardware. Such centers contain computing infrastructure that IT systems require, including servers, data storage drives, and network equipment.

There are currently 10 data centers in the greater Chicagoland region, and each demands hundreds of megawatts, in some cases enough to power the entire city of Chicago.

According to Data Center Knowledge, among the most significant issues relating to data centers are power infrastructure bottlenecks, resource use and the environmental impact. Data centers use high energy and water consumption, put out electronic waste, noise pollution, and a strain on local resources.

In addition data centers also contribute to greenhouse gas emissions and can disrupt local ecosystems.

The project slated for Braidwood is said to create hundreds of construction jobs, and 200 technical jobs once the facility has been completed.

Looking south, Gardner was here first

Although we think of Braidwood as the city that started the “Coal Rush” in this area, the truth is that Braidwood and Coal City are the late comers to the area. The first of the coal towns was Gardner.

When Illinois became a state most of the population was in the southern part. Our area did not see the first white settler until 20 years later. The towns on the I & M Canal were the first to prosper, then other towns that had some connection with the Canal started to grow. One of these towns was Wilmington.

In 1852 the business men of Wilmington got together to petition the state to grant a permit for the Chicago and Mississippi Railroad (later to become the Chicago & Alton) to run a line from St. Louis on to Springfield, Bloomington, Wilmington and finally ending in Joliet. The petition was granted and the Chicago & Alton Railroad was the result.

The first thing the railroad did was survey the proposed route. Henry A. Gardner, J. C. Spencer and C. H. Gould were engineers on the railroad assigned to the task. They not only surveyed the proposed route, but also bought up land along the route for future investment. This practice would seem unethical to us today, but it was common practice then.

TIME WAS....

The railroad was completed in 1854, the same year that the above three men platted out the town which they named after Gardner, the chief engineer on the C & A.

The first building was that of the C & A section boss and the second was known as “the barracks.” It was built by the first postmaster, Absalom Gleason and held not only the post office, but also his family living quarters, a general store, and a paint shop. In 1855 “The Eagle” hotel was built by G. R. Taxis and Scott Armitage.

The town survived, if not prospered as a location to ship grain and other agricultural products, and as a jumping on and off point to the Grand Prairie surrounding it as well as connections to other lines in Joliet, Bloomington and Dwight.

It was long known that coal was abundant in the area, and in 1864 the first shaft was sunk. The editor of the Wilmington Independent visited there in December of 1864, here is his description, “On

Thursday last we made a visit to Gardner, and were surprised at the improvements which are constantly being made. A few enterprising men, who have recently located there, together with the older residents, are pushing matters with creditable zeal, and the little village bids fair soon to become a thriving town.

“Gardner now contains three stores, owned respectively by J. B. Benson, Mr. Hart, and Robert Atkinson, all of whom are doing a good business. Messrs. Morgan & Hart, who now have a store at Braceville, have just completed a new building, the best in the place, and are about to put in a heavy stock of merchandise.

“In the afternoon we visited the new coal mine, owned and operated by W. H. Odell, Esq. Enveloping our self in a huge oil cloth cloak, we stepped upon the “dummy” with our friend Odell, and were soon lowered 166 feet “into the bowels of the earth.” The shaft is the largest in the State. It was made 8 by 16 feet, and filled in with timber, making it 7 by 15 feet in the clear.

“The distance from the surface to the bottom of the shaft is 200 feet - 18 or 20 of which is below the coal vein, and is intended as reservoir for the water constantly dripping from the sides of the shaft, and escaping from those portions of the mine which are being worked. To look up from the bottom of this gloomy access, one would suppose it half a mile to the surface, the aperture appearing scarcely larger than a man’s hand.”

This huge shaft was the state of the art, the coal was inexhaustible, the railroad was already in place to haul the black gold away, in short; Gardner had a great future. It was though that it would be as large as Alton, Joliet, or perhaps even Chicago.

And while Braidwood has a reputation for being wild. By 1872 Gardner was a close second as a report of a wedding reveal, “A late charivari party in Gardner fired a cannon immediately in front of a business row of buildings, in one of which the bridal party were, and broke nearly 100 panes of valuable glass in adjacent buildings. We understand that legal steps have been taken, and that no “panes” will be spared to collect damages of the rioters.”

My question is, “Who brings a cannon to a wedding?” Now that’s wild!

Baptist church to host Alzheimer’s caregiver support group

If you or someone you know is caring for a loved one with memory problems, you are invited to attend a caregivers support group that meets the second Tuesday of every month at 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church of Coal City, 4470 E. Route 113 in Coal City.

This meeting is for caregivers only. For additional information, please contact Becky Haldorson at 815-791-2658.

Alzheimer’s caregiver support groups have many benefits for both caregivers and patients. Caregiving takes a heavy toll on the caregivers’ mental and physical health and the health of the patient with dementia is directly related to the health of his or her caregiver: the healthier the caregiver, the healthier the patient, and vice versa.

Support group participants, value support groups as a place to learn more factual information about dementia. Increased education about dementia makes caregivers more effective: they are better able to respond to patients’ needs when they understand and can anticipate them.

Furthermore caregiver depression decreases as caregiver education about dementia increases, and when caregiver depression decreases, patient outcomes improve.

Support a kid to attend Bible school

The Coal City United Methodist Church, at 6805 E. McArde Road, invites all kids entering first to fifth grades to join them for “Road Trip” Vacation Bible School, June 16-19 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Adult, middle school, and high school volunteers are also needed. Registration for students and volunteers is online at vbspro.events/p/elb37a.

Kids go home with a sack lunch every day.

You can sponsor a child or student leader for $30, which provides a t-shirt, Bible stories, games, crafts, lunch and more!

For any questions, please call the church office at 815-634-8670. Registration deadline is June 1, so be sure to register early.

Stop texting

BRAIDWOOD—Pull up to the stop-light by the train crossing and the young lady driver next to me is on her phone clicking away on her keyboard texting someone. While I wanted to roll down my window and yell to her, I didn't while we both waited for the red light to turn green. After a couple of other cars pulled up we all sat wait for the light to change while the young lady driver continued to click away. Finally the green arrow came and she just sat there still on her phone. Someone else behind her honked and she panicked by stepping on the gas, nearly hitting two kids on a bike who were cutting through traffic. Luckily they avoided her and no one was hurt. It could have been tragic. The answer to everyone is even though you're at a stoplight, stay off your phone.

We will remember

WILMINGTON—In two years we will be voting again for aldermen. When you go to cast your vote be sure to share your feelings about the aldermen who voted yes on the grocery tax. And vote no.

No sound-off

BRAIDWOOD—After reading last week's paper without a Sound-off page I want to say it was kinda nice it was missing. I'll take a page of more local newspaper stories over a page of Sound-off any time. It's just a repeat of anti-Trump garbage by the same person week-after-week.

A giant suggestion

WILMINGTON—I think that having the Gemini Giant standing where it is right now was one of the best decisions ever made. I see people every single day stopping to see him and get their picture taken with our most famous resident. My suggestion is that the city incorporate some food trucks or maybe a hot dog vendor stationed by the Giant.

No courage

WILMINGTON—To the four aldermen and the mayor who voted for a city grocery tax. All I can say is you lack courage. You could have stepped up and did your job by finding a way for the city to live without the $278,000 tax. You could have helped put a little money back into the pockets of the senior citizens who live in this community. You could have had the courage to say the city is already getting $288,000 in gaming taxes. You could have had the courage to say the July 1 gas tax increase and the Love's truck stop will mean more money for the city. You could have had the courage to stand up and say let's give one percent of the budget back to the people who are being over taxed. You had a chance to help your neighbor, but you didn't. Shameful.

No grocery tax

WILMINGTON—Just to give out information, Kankakee County does not have a grocery tax. I have friends who live in Bourbonnais, Bradley and Kankakee and they do not pay any type of grocery tax when they shop at Krogers, Jewel and Aldi's. They pay only a regular sales tax, the same thing they pay if they go to a book store, shoe store, Walmart and Target.

Tax, tax, tax

SHADOW LAKES—If you are wondering about the gas prices that are not dropping in Illinois, go to your computer and look up gas tax in all the states. You will be surprised to see what we pay tax on per gallon. See what our ranking is with all the other states. Here are a few worlds from out beloved governor. He goes on saying that with the tariffs from President Trump, how things in Illinois are going to cost more. You are not hearing him and the Left in Springfield would like to do. The Left are eyeing over $6 billion in potential tax increases, from digital ads to death taxes, to plug a budget hole ballooned by years of big spending. The left sure does know how to spend your money. Obediently yours, Margot Lane.

National disgrace

WILMINGTON—Why does Trump get away with cheating the American people? Because those who voted for Trump know he is a crook and has been one his entire life. But some say corruption is always a part of politics. Wrong. President Obama never violated the emoluments clause and he was not considered guilty of any scandal. Unless, of course, you blame him for wearing a beige suit on a hot summer day for which FOX News said was "shocking." What's shocking is that Trump allows children here and abroad to die so that Trump can make another dollar. And that is something the American people should really and truly hang their heads in shame. And it's no excuse that Trump was born with a silver spoon in his mouth as he watched his mother drive around in a Rolls Royce. Trump is a big boy now in big boy pants but he still behaves like a spoiled brat who has no business being President. Because Trump is so busy grifting and conning, he can't keep tariffs straight or anything else for that matter. Trump plays the fool and disgraces our nation every single day without serving one efficient day, without serving one honest day. Irene

Decide for yourself

SHADOW LAKES—The caravans of people from the south making their way to our southern border have stopped. There is a lot being reported on the news and social media about the undocumented immigrants being deported. How much has all this impacted your personal life, because in my case I can say not one bit. I still get up early in the morning to go to work that takes most of my day just like it always has, pay check same, standard federal, state taxes, social security no change. I go to the grocery store and things actually seem to be going up on price. Except for eggs prices have come down some but $4 for a slice of cake is crazy, it wasn't that long ago I could buy a whole cake for $4. Today, gas prices are a little bit lower but not by much, a few pennies. Stock Market is a roller coaster up and down like crazy, the inexperienced investors that panic and pull their funds out of the stock market most likely lost money. The tariffs are creating panic and uncertainty many businesses don't know what to do and many are worried about how much longer they can stay in business. Big stores like Walmart and others are predicting prices will rise. Countries like China, Russia, and Brazil are working on breaking the grip on the U.S. dollar on the global economy. Because of President Trump's disrespectful way to negotiate with other countries almost every country in the world has lost trust in the United States. The future at the very least looks uncertain, the present looks scary to say the least. This is just a personal opinion you make your own conclusions.

Musk is out

BRAIDWOOD—The nation rejoices as the cold fish of a man whose blood runs like ice is gone and it seems that everyone is happy on all sides of the political spectrum. The list of damages done by Musk is endless. But standing out in Musk's heinous legacy is how he deprives people of vital services especially veterans. And Musk destroyed USAID which has resulted in the richest man in the world killing the poorest children of the world. How can he sleep at night? Trump is guilty of further cuts to civil service in an effort to reduce the number of eyes watching him. It's been reported that Trump's first impeachment was due to a staff member whose job it was to listen in on phone conversations between heads of state. The staff member reported Trump's phone call to President Zelensky of Ukraine during which Trump threatened to withhold assistance to Ukraine. The question therefore becomes, was DOGE meant to save federal dollars? No, it was meant to allow Trump to break the law.

My conclusion

BRAIDWOOD—After having a recent conversation with someone involved with the healthy community coalition here in Braidwood, I've come to the conclusion that this organization seems to just be spinning its wheels without making a significant impact. I asked my daughter who is a sophomore in high school if she knew about this organization. She said she is aware of them and that they are a bunch of old people just telling kids what they should and shouldn't be doing. I guess the reputation for this organization needs a bit of a change.

Taco Trump

WILMINGTON—Recently a Wall Street journalist tacked an acronym onto Trump calling him a "Taco." The abbreviation is "Trump always chickens out" to describe Trump's pattern with tariffs. And although Trump was annoyed at being mocked, it fits perfectly. Considering Trump's history, he is a terrible businessman and wins only when he cheats, cons or grifts. Back in the day, he frightened everyday people with his motto "see you in court." But now as the Taco President we see Trump as not only a chicken but a weasel, a cockroach, a mosquito with no offense intended to these creatures God created. It's Trump that's been given free will by God to do the right thing and instead shuts down USAID causing excruciating suffering and death. Does Karoline Leavitt, Trump's press secretary, think of what Jesus would do differently as she daily wears a crucifix around her neck? The hypocrisy of Trump and his Christian supporters is so offensive that Christianity itself is under attack. Fortunately Pope Leo will slap Trump down as did Pope Francis.

Illinois lawmakers approve record spending

BY BRYCE HILL

Illinois state lawmakers' spending plan surpasses last year's budget by $2 billion, requiring taxpayers to pay over $800 million in additional costs for yet another year of record spending.

With just over 24 hours to conduct a full review, the Illinois General Assembly approved a record-setting $55.2 billion budget for 2026, after a 75-41 House vote sent the 3,000-plus page plan to Gov. J.B. Pritzker. It follows a familiar fiscal playbook: spend more, fix nothing, hand taxpayers the bill – and toss in a raise for those casting the votes.

To cover the rising costs of education, state pensions and health benefits for government workers, the budget uses short-sighted fixes and ignores structural problems. Once again, it's taxpayers who will pay the price.

Just before its deadline, Illinois lawmakers passed a record $55.2 billion budget, featuring over $394 million in tax increases, $237 million in fund sweeps and $216 million in delaying funds.

Despite lawmaker claims of budget cuts, the 2026 budget increased by $2 billion compared to 2025. Gov. J.B. Pritzker has grown Illinois' budget by $16 billion and enacted over 50 tax hikes since taking office in 2019.

Notably, the budget cuts the state's Property Tax Relief Grant, resulting in an effective $43 million property tax hike. Lawmakers will also receive more than $6,000 in pay raises for the coming year, while public pensioners will receive a benefit spike valued at more than $13 billion. Meanwhile, the budget contributes $5 billion less in pension funding than is necessary to keep the system solvent for future retirees, according to the pension system's actuaries.

On the revenue side the budget features more than $800 million in revenue gimmicks featuring tax hikes, fund sweeps and temporary measures that fail to truly balance the state's budget. The process was so rushed that even bill sponsors seem unclear on the exact amount taxpayers will be asked to pay. Among the revenue adjustments are:

- $195 million – $228 million from a new tax amnesty program.
- $171 million from delaying motor fuels tax revenue transfers to the Road Fund.
- $237 million in fund sweeps.
- $72 million in corporate tax hikes.
- $45 million from shorting the state's Budget Stabilization Fund.

- $36 million from a new sports wagering tax.
- $15 million from removing hotel tax exemptions from short term rental platforms.
- An additional tax on nicotine analogs.

The 2026 budget continues Illinois' practice of irresponsible and speculative budgeting. Rather than focusing on policy solutions such as a spending cap, right-sizing employee health care costs and constitutional pension reform, lawmakers have opted for a status quo budget.

Constantly relying on taxes and fund sweeps encourages irresponsible budgeting, which erodes voters' trust in Springfield. These tactics reduce the state's competitiveness, risk potential credit downgrades and can worsen Illinois' challenges with high unemployment and sluggish growth.

Illinois' 2026 budget continues the state's habit of patching budget problems using short-sighted fixes with long-term consequences. Without structural solutions, such as adopting a spending cap and constitutional pension reform, Illinois has continued its cycle of reactive budgeting at taxpayers' expense.

A living way to fix pollution

Dear EarthTalk: Are there ways living organisms can be used to fix pollution?
-- M.L., via email

EARTH TALK

Questions & Answers About Our Environment

Pollution remains one of the most significant environmental challenges, contaminating air, water and soil and posing risks to human health. Traditional cleanup methods, like chemical treatments and mechanical removal, often come at a high cost and sometimes harm the environment further.

So scientists have turned to bioremediation, a process of using living organisms to break down and remove pollutants. This is proving to be a cost-effective and sustainable solution for fighting contamination across our ecosystems.

One of the most promising applications of bioremediation involves microorganisms like bacteria and fungi, which are capable of breaking down harmful substances into less toxic forms. Some bacteria, like Alcanivorax borkumensis, thrive on oil spills, consuming hydrocarbons and helping to restore marine environments. Other species, like Pseudomonas bacteria, can absorb heavy metals from contaminated soil and water, reducing the toxicity of industrial waste sites. Fungi, like Phanerochaete chrysosporium, can degrade complex pollutants such as dioxins and pesticides. Scientists are also developing genetically modified microbes to enhance bioremediation efforts.

Scientists design these engineered organisms to target specific pollutants, breaking them down more efficiently than their natural counterparts. "We could start trying to predict what compounds a particular bacterium/enzyme [combination] can use from the genome sequence," says David Leys, a scientist who has worked on detoxification for many years.

In addition to microorganisms, certain animals also play a vital role in cleaning up pollution. Oysters and mussels act as natural water filters, absorbing heavy metals and microplastics from aquatic ecosystems, improving water quality while also serving as indicators of environmental health.

Pollinators like bees and butterflies can accumulate pollutants in their bodies, which help provide insight into contamination levels. Studying these animals helps researchers track the spread of pollutants and develop strategies for mitigating their challenges. The effectiveness of these organisms depends on environmental conditions like temperature, pH, and nutrient availability.

People can advance bioremediation techniques by supporting sustainable cleanup efforts and scientific research. By spreading awareness about these methods and advocating for funding in environmental science, people can help accelerate the adoption of natural pollution cleanup solutions.

"The knowledge gained from the research will allow scientists to engineer the organisms and their chemical processes to target specific man-made toxins," Leys says. Advancements in genetic modification and synthetic biology will likely make bioremediation a widely used method in the coming years.

IL may have a fascinating campaign season

As I write this column, the spring legislative session is a day away from adjournment. Nothing of great importance has cleared both chambers.

So, there's no point in writing about any of that. I'll let you know my thoughts next week.

Let's discuss a different topic instead.

For quite a while now, most folks in politics have assumed that Illinois Secretary of State Alexi Giannoulias and Comptroller Susana Mendoza will probably run for mayor of Chicago in 2027. The incumbent Brandon Johnson is spectacularly unpopular, and a real hunger is developing in the city (again) for new leadership.

Anyway, some wags have also speculated that one or even both of the statewide officials will not run for reelection in order to gear up for a mayoral bid.

With Cook County Democratic Party candidate slating coming up in July, the rumors have intensified.

I bumped into Secretary Giannoulias last week at the Statehouse and we talked about the rumors and then I asked him if he was running again.

"I'm running for reelection," Giannoulias bluntly replied. He did not rule out or rule in a run for mayor.

Mendoza's response was different.

Back in 2018, Mendoza easily won reelection, besting her Republican opponent by 23 percentage points.

But in September of that year, Chicago Mayor Rahm Emanuel surprised the city's political world when he announced that he wouldn't seek a third term. People who hadn't considered running suddenly changed their plans.

CAPITOL FACTS
 Rich Miller

Mendoza, in the midst of her first reelection bid, was suddenly on a growing list of possible candidates.

Then, a few days before election day, NBC Chicago's Mary Ann Ahern disclosed a draft TV ad by Mendoza announcing her mayoral candidacy.

Mendoza said it was just a contingency in case she decided to run, but she caught a lot of heat. And while it obviously didn't hurt Mendoza in her statewide bid, it may have damaged her somewhat when she eventually jumped into the mayor's race. Mendoza didn't make it past the first round.

So, I asked Mendoza's people if she planned to stand for reelection as comptroller and/or run for mayor.

"Comptroller Mendoza is weighing her options, including re-election," a spokesperson said. "She loves her job and is committed to public service. She will make her decision based on what is best for Illinois, Chicago and her family."

Now comes the important part: "She will not run for two offices at the same time. Whatever she decides to run for, she'll be all in."

Asked to clarify that statement (after all, she could run for reelection and then spend a few weeks after the election gathering petition signatures for mayor), I was told it'll be one race or the other. If she announces for reelection, she won't run for mayor.

There are those who believe Mendoza may be over-thinking the impact of her 2018 back-to-back election experience.

And, on the other hand, there are those who believe that Giannoulias may not fully appreciate the pressure he'll be under and the criticism he will face if he runs for reelection and then runs for mayor.

The secretary of state is one of the best jobs in state government. If Giannoulias had hedged about running again, a long line of potential hopefuls would've quickly started forming.

Not as many people are interested in being state comptroller, but if Mendoza decides to skip reelection, the opening will add to the growing turnover in Illinois politics.

U.S. Senator Dick Durbin's retirement announcement has already attracted three incumbents who want to replace him.

U.S. Rep. Robin Kelly announced her intention to run, as has U.S. Rep. Raja Krishnamoorthi.

Those attempts to move up have already attracted several candidates and potential candidates. And many of those folks are elected officials who will either have to give up their current offices to run - creating more down-ballot turbulence - or be replaced by an appointee, who might then have to be replaced, etc., etc., etc.

Lt. Governor Juliana Stratton has also announced for U.S. Senate. That means Gov. JB Pritzker will have to choose a new running mate. And if chooses someone who is an elected official, then that'll create more openings down the food chain.

U.S. Rep. Jan Schakowsky has announced her retirement, and people are lining up to replace her, including Democratic Sen. Laura Fine, who will have to give up her seat to run.

And there are plenty of rumors that U.S. Rep. Danny Davis won't stand for reelection.

Next year promises to be a fascinating campaign season.

Baptist church to host Alzheimer's caregiver support group

If you or someone you know is caring for a loved one with memory problems, you are invited to attend a caregivers support group that meets the second Tuesday of every month at 7 p.m. at the First Baptist Church of Coal City, 4470 E. Route 113 in Coal City.

This meeting is for caregivers only. For additional information, please contact Becky Halderson at 815-791-2658.

Alzheimer's caregiver support groups have many benefits for both caregivers and patients. Caregiving takes a heavy toll on the caregivers' mental and physical health and the health of the patient with dementia is directly related to the health of his or her caregiver: the healthier the caregiver, the healthier the patient, and vice versa.

Support group participants, value support groups as a place to learn more factual information about dementia. Increased education about dementia makes caregivers more effective: they are better able to respond to patients' needs when they understand and can anticipate them.

Furthermore caregiver depression decreases as caregiver education about dementia increases, and when caregiver depression decreases, patient outcomes improve.

Gas prices continue ‘gentle descent’

Average gasoline prices in Illinois have fallen 5.2 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $3.34/g, according to GasBuddy's survey of 4,378 stations in Illinois.

Prices in Illinois are 2.2 cents per gallon lower than a month ago and stand 54.3 cents per gallon lower than a year ago. The national average price of diesel has decreased 2.4 cents in the last week and stands at $3.465 per gallon.

In Wilmington, the lowest price you'll find for gas is at Mohsen, $3.17/g, with Circle K at $3.29/g.

In Braidwood, gas ranges from $3.29/g at Casey's and $3.39/g at Marathon. In Coal City, expect to pay $3.37/g across the board.

Morris Casey's is $3.14/g while BP is $3.19/g. The cheapest gas in these parts can be found in Bourbonnais, with the Gulf station charging $3.09/g and Road Ranger's price per gallon at $3.15.

"The national average price of gasoline has continued its gentle descent over the last week, with the most notable declines seen in the Great Lakes region, where a minor refinery issue was resolved, sending wholesale gas prices lower," said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy.

"While gasoline inventories remain somewhat tight heading into the summer, I'm optimistic that increased refinery output could pave the way for further price declines. That said, any unexpected outages could still cause short-term price bumps."

The lowest price in the state yesterday was $2.81/g while the highest was $4.49/g.

Oak Knoll Financial Strategies is hosting its 5th annual fundraiser for the Alzheimer's Foundation of America.

As financial advisors for Raymond James, we know at least 10 of our clients have family members with Alzheimer's. Sadly, we've lost a few in the past two years to this disease.

In previous years, the longest day fundraising event included watching movies, biking, and bowling.

This year, Oak Knoll Financial Strategies is excited to sponsor a bags (or corn hole) tournament to raise awareness and funds for the Alzheimer's Foundation.

The event will be on Saturday, June 21, from 1-6 p.m. at Children's Memorial Park in Wilmington. The Wilmington Rotary Club has refurbished the park with accessible play equipment and a story walk.

Books for children, available through the Alzheimer's Foundation of America, will be featured in the story walk during the 2025 event.

There will be food trucks, DJ music, gift baskets, drawings and kids games offered. A $25 donation to the Alzheimer's Foundation of America gets each person into the tourney and one free drink. It is open to competitors age 16 and older with prizes awarded to the top three winners.

Over the past four years, Oak Knoll Financial Strategies raised $30,000 for the Foundation to help find a cure for this terrible disease.

The link for people to donate is <https://givebutter.com/LongestDay>. Or call Ashley or Shanna at 815-476-2105 to confirm your spot. Sign-ups will be taken at noon the day of the event.

Morris Hospital announces special Rhythm of Our Youth summer screening

For the first time ever, Morris Hospital & Healthcare Centers will be conducting its popular Rhythm of Our Youth cardiac screening outside of the school setting. The special screening date is set for Saturday, July 12, from 8 a.m.-12 p.m. at the Morris Hospital YMCA, 2200 W. Dupont Ave., Morris.

Students entering high school during the 2025/26 school year are eligible for the free screening, as well as 2025 high school graduates. The purpose of the screening is to identify students who have an undiagnosed cardiac abnormality that could result in sudden cardiac death.

The screening involves an electrocardiogram, a non-invasive, painless test that measures the electrical activity of the heart and detects certain heart abnormalities that can lead to sudden cardiac death. The test takes about three minutes to complete.

Based on results of the screenings, about 3 percent of students are referred to their physician for additional follow-up. Typically, less than 1 percent are found to have a medical problem that requires cardiac intervention. Results are sent home to the student's parents and are not shared with the school.

Parents must complete an electronic consent form prior to the screening day in order for their student to participate.

Morris Hospital launched Rhythm of Our Youth in 2016 as a result of funding provided by generous donors to the Morris Hospital Foundation. Since then, over 14,000 area high school students have been screened through the program.

Sudden cardiac death claims more than 2,000 lives of children and adolescents in the United States each year. Most victims of sudden cardiac death have had underlying heart conditions that could have been detected through a simple ECG.

Parents can register their teen for the July 12 Rhythm of Our Youth screening by going to morrishospital.org/events and then choose Rhythm of Our Youth at the YMCA. Appointments are being scheduled in 15-minute increments. Parents must also complete a consent form, which is also available on the hospital website.

For more information, call Morris Hospital at 815-705-7355.

OBITUARIES

Phil Anderson

WILMINGTON—Phil Anderson, 73 of Wilmington, passed away unexpectedly on Wednesday, May 28, 2025 at Silver Cross Medical Center in New Lenox, IL.

Born Jan. 25, 1952 in Cicero, IL, Philip Wilson was a son of Lawrence and Doris (Wilson) Anderson. He was raised and educated in Cicero and graduated from Morton East High School with the class of 1970.

Phil devoted over four decades of his life to the craft of carpet installation, a career he took great pride in. Most recently, he worked for Apostrophe Design, and also served as a village trustee for the Village of Symerton.

A man of many passions, Phil enjoyed bowling, woodworking, and was especially known for his deep love of music. With an encyclopedic knowledge of songs and artists, he could spark a lively conversation or settle any musical debate with ease. Though soft-spoken by nature, Phil's quick wit and love for a good laugh endeared him to all who knew him. He had a special fondness for limericks, always ready with a clever rhyme.

Phil's greatest joy in life came from his family. He was a devoted husband, a loyal friend, and above all, a loving grandfather who cherished every moment with his grandchildren.

Survivors include his wife Jill, whom he married Nov. 15, 1990; four children:

Philip Justin "PJ" (Kat) Anderson of Woodstock, IL; Marty (Gina) Enz and Patrick (Amanda) Cowie, both of Las Vegas, NV; and Amy (Tracy) Kinkin of Braidwood; grandchildren: Mikayla, Landyn, Jurzey, Coltyn, Anzley, Miles, Zoey, Jaxen, Nolan, Bennett, Marcus and Kaitlyn; a brother Larry (Leslie) Anderson of Black Forrest, CO; three sisters-in-law: Shelly (Mark) Molle, Wendy (Mark) Kahler and Pam (David) Pitts; two nieces: Karin (John) Kirkys and Kristin (Tim) Ruth, and two nephews: Larry (Patty) Anderson and Matthew (Olivia) Rebel, as well as several great nieces and great nephews.

The family will receive friends at Baskerville Funeral Home, 700 East Kahler Road in Wilmington on Sunday, June 1, 2025 from 1:00 p.m. until time of service at 3:00 p.m. Green flameless cremation rites will be accorded at the conclusion of the services.

Canadian wildfires bring first air quality alert of the season

Smoke from Canadian wildfires triggered air quality warnings by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency over the weekend.

Canadian wildfire smoke reached Illinois late Friday, causing an increase in fine particulates overnight while lingering Saturday morning with a gradually decreasing throughout the day.

While the first air smog warning of the summer has subsided, residents are encouraged to monitor local air quality and air quality forecasts using the latest information on AirNow.gov.

Particulate matter, also known as particle pollution, can cause serious health problems, including asthma attacks, heart attacks, strokes, and early death. Those most at risk are people with respiratory or pulmonary disorders, as well as children and adults who are active outdoors.

Symptoms to look out for include wheezing, coughing, a fast heartbeat, tiredness, chest pain and shortness of breath.

Illinois Department of Public Health encourages residents to take the following actions to protect themselves when air quality is Red or "Unhealthy" AQI category:

- Stay indoors and monitor your breathing, especially if you have heart or lung disease, and keep windows and doors closed.

- If your air conditioner has a fresh air intake, set your system to recirculate or close the intake.

- Use high efficiency filters in air conditioning systems and portable air cleaners.

- Avoid activities that create more particulate matter indoors, like smoking or burning candles.

- If you cannot avoid working or other outdoors activities, choose shorter or less intense activities, considering rescheduling, and take more frequent breaks.

- Consider wearing a high-quality N-95 or N-100 mask while outdoors.

Energy saving tips to offset rate increase

The Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) is alerting Illinoisans on ways to keep cool and offset coming energy price spikes. Summer costs are expected to rise June 1 for ComEd and Ameren customers alike following a regional increase in energy supply prices.

"Energy affordability is always top of mind at the ICC, and we want ratepayers to be aware of higher summertime rates so they can safely plan to reduce energy usage and improve energy efficiency around their homes," said Jonathan Feipel, Executive Director for the Illinois Commerce Commission. "Higher energy supply rates are not unique to Illinois. Unfortunately, electric consumers from Louisiana to Minnesota will be paying more for electricity—not due to state policy decisions, but regional supply and demand."

PJM Interconnection, the power grid operator for northern Illinois, and Midcontinent Independent System Operator (MISO), the operator for central and southern Illinois, experienced drastically higher than normal energy supply pricing at their annual capacity auctions. Both grid operators have issued summer preparedness warnings for possible grid supply shortages and elevated risk in their respective regions.

The average residential ComEd customer can expect a monthly increase of about $11 per month, and the average residential Ameren customer will see summer bill increases closer to $45 per month. Come fall, Ameren's bill increase will drop to around $4 a month.

Hot summer days cause consumers to crank the AC and raise their energy bills. The ICC's energy efficiency tips can help consumers keep cool, reduce energy usage, and spend less on utility bills.

ICC SMART TIPS TO BEAT THE HEAT AND SAVE:

1. Contact your utility about programs they offer to reduce energy usage during peak hours or alternative rate options that might work for you.

2. Install a programmable thermostat to control the temperature overnight and when you're away from home.

3. Schedule regular AC maintenance visits and replace filters regularly.

4. Close curtains and other window treatments to block heat from the sun during the day.

5. Use ceiling or box fans to keep cool. Remember to turn fans off when leaving the room.

6. Invest in LED lighting which emits very little heat and uses 75+% less energy.

7. Use small appliances to prepare meals or cook outdoors, rather than heating up a large oven.

8. Wash clothes with cold water early in the day and line dry. Hanging clothes on a clothesline once a week can save around $79 a year.

9. Set your water heater to no more than 120 degrees Fahrenheit.

10. Caulk or weather-strip around doors and windows to seal any leaks. Stay cool and save money.

Put your junk in the trunk

The Forest Preserve District of Will County is rolling out a lighthearted but important campaign that reminds visitors to "Put Your Junk in the Trunk" to help stop vehicle break-ins at preserves.

The campaign is designed to raise awareness about thefts from unattended vehicles and remind people to stash their valuables before heading out on the trails. "We want people to be more aware of their surroundings and to be safe," said Forest Preserve Deputy Police Chief David Barrios Jr. "This goes for anywhere, not just in the forest preserves. Our officers do check on vehicles and educate people when they see valuables left in plain view, but we can't be everywhere."

The Junk in Your Trunk campaign includes educational signs in the preserves and a summer social media push featuring a humorous country music video that drives home the message about protecting valuables while enjoying nature.

In the video, a couple arrives at a preserve in a 1949 Chevy and wisely stashes all their treasures - including cash, gold bars and even the Mona Lisa - before heading out for a hike. A would-be 'carburglar,' armed with a hammer, sneaks over to the car, but he finds nothing to steal. Later, the same criminal eyes another vehicle where a purse, wallet and smartphone are clearly visible through the window. Before he can act, he's apprehended by Forest Preserve police.

The video is a humorous way to deliver a serious message, Barrios added. "People are more likely to remember the video and its purpose because it uses exaggerated props, a sneaky criminal and has a funny catchphrase," he said.

Crime of opportunity Unfortunately, thefts do happen. Windows are smashed and purses, wallets and electronics are taken from vehicles at preserves.

"It is an issue that we in the police department deal with a good amount, but this type of crime is a crime of opportunity," Barrios said. "A criminal looks for an easy find, and if they see an opportunity to quickly take valuables in plain sight from an unoccupied vehicle, they will take advantage of the situation. The ones we have seen have been mostly purses left on the front seat that were easily taken after a driver or passenger-side window was broken."

That's why Forest Preserve police are reminding visitors to stash their stuff out of sight before entering the preserve - or better yet, leave it at home.

"We are doing this to bring awareness about leaving valuables in plain sight in your vehicles while out in our preserves," Barrios said. "Especially with the nice weather, more people will be out enjoying the preserves. We want to remind preserve users and educate them with tips to keep themselves and their property safe."

The goal is to get people thinking ahead so they can protect their belongings and enjoy the preserves worry-free.

"Remember, someone might be watching you as you get out to enjoy the preserves," Barrios said. "They might see your valuables, like purses, wallets and backpacks - left in your car, and as soon as you leave, that's when they'll strike."

In addition to putting your junk in the trunk, Barrios recommends pre-serve visitors:

Report suspicious activity as soon as you see it.

Be a good witness: Get a description, location, direction of travel and license plate number if possible.

Always carry your cell phone and add the Forest Preserve's non-emergency dispatch number to your contacts: 815-727-6191, option 9. In an emergency, call 911.

THE FOREST PRESERVE District of Will County is launching a 'Put Your Junk in the Trunk' campaign to remind people not to leave valuables out in the open in their vehicles.

Public can comment on $308 million rate increase for Nicor Gas

The Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) is offering Northern Illinois Gas Company (Nicor) customers an additional opportunity to comment on the utility's proposed rate increase in Joliet on June 9 at the Bicentennial Park Theatre.

Customers unable to attend the hearing may submit comments via the ICC website or call our Consumer Services Division at 1-800-524-0795 during regular business hours.

Nicor filed its petition for a $308.6 million general rate increase with the ICC in January 2025 to update its natural gas rates. Rate cases are formal proceedings used to ensure utilities receive the necessary funds to provide safe and reliable service at a reasonable cost to ratepayers.

Under the Public Utilities Act, the ICC is responsible for scrutinizing rate case filings along with any additional materials from the utility or various interveners over the course of an 11-month legal proceeding.

The public meeting will be held June 9 from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at theBillie Limacher Bicentennial Park Indoor Theatre, 201 W. Jefferson St, Joliet.

The Administrative Law Judge presiding over the case will open the hearing, followed by a brief presentation from Nicor. Verbal and written comments from consumers will be accepted at the hearing and ICC staff will be available for a Q&A session.

Commissioners will review the entire case at the close of evidence.
